THE

Time

The time is now. The people of this secluded community have different majors, they drive different cars, they come from different walks of life. They are individuals. In spite of these obvious differences, they share common bonds. Philosophy for example, the endless cafeteria line, and the Alma Mater after basketball games. This community is often forgotten by the fast paced "Music City." Those who hurry around this hill can see that there is something different here, perhaps they ought to Consider the Source.

Festivities

Taking a closer look at this life on the hill reveals more about its character. Weeks and weekends come and go, plans are made and fun is had. Pep rallies and ball games, car washes and snack shop chats, ESPN and “Opryland Hotel” — just a few of the memories. On and off campus there is something truly unique about this group of people. Could others see? They could if they would only Consider the Source.

Don't give in! Guest speaker for the retreat was Brian White. Not only did he thrill the crowd with Pharaoh, Pharaoh, but he touched their hearts with his practical message. (Photo by Steven Spencer)

"It was a dark and stormy night!" Well, maybe not stormy, but it was dark. The kind of dark that you can only find in the country. Far away from everything that causes all of the hustle and the headaches (you know the stuff commercials are made of!) Anyway, the stars. They were behind the clouds for a while but by the time the annual all-school retreat was under way the TNC congregation had a captive audience.

The weekend was an escape from the fast paced, relentless music city. The event was highlighted by guest speaker Brian White. After a weekend of fun, fellowship and sleep(?) many got their second wind and were ready again to tackle campus life. (Copy and design by Laura Jenkins)

Homecoming 1990

In The Spirit
Of

Tradition

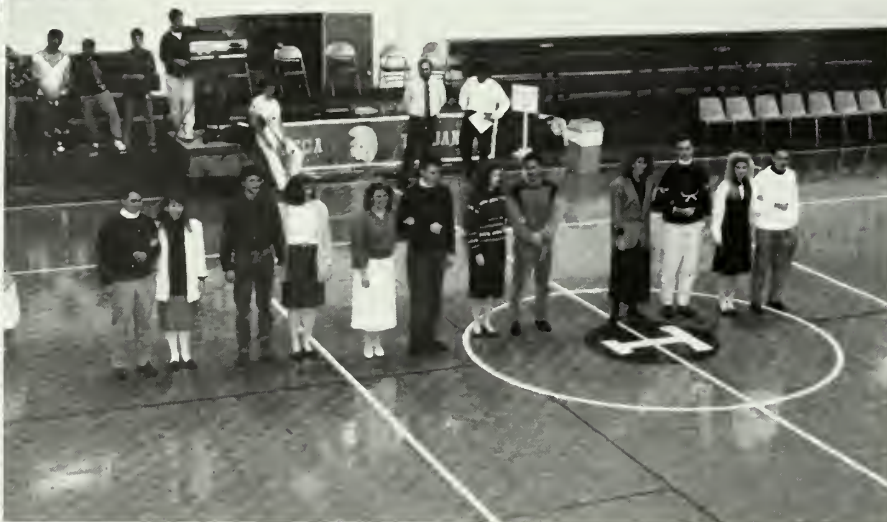

Introducing Mr. Don Garrison Grand Marshal of the 1990 Homecoming Parade.

The cheerleaders helped to lead the crowd cheers and to build the excitement for the evening's game.

Homecoming featured the return of the traditional Super Trojan. Jack Galloway served as our fearless hero.

During the Friday afternoon pep rally The Homecoming Queen and her court were introduced.

Purple And White Explosion,

The pep rally brought the basketball team and the student body together and gave the students and the crowd an opportunity to show their Homecoming spirit. This weekend has been planned for nearly a year in advance and the pep rally was the first indication that what everyone was waiting for was actually becoming reality.

Friends And Memories

And A Victory!

It's All In The Spirit Of . . .

Giving, not to receive, but for the enjoyment of giving is what motivated this year's student body to think of more than only their needs.

Food drives sponsored by the Mission Club, painting houses for Cornerstone Ministries of serving dinner at the Rescue Mission just start off the list of the many ways students gave back to the community.

The Annual Volleyball Marathon was to benefit young cancer victim Tristan Blann. The 24 hours of volleyball and all of the proceeds were in his honor.

Giving became a way of life and an exciting part of life "on the hill."

ardigan sweaters, chapstick, marshmallows and hot chocolate — things that everyone looks forward to as the days get shorter and the evenings get colder.

Fall semester brought the changing of the leaves, volleyball and basketball practice. The fall also found the cast of "A Comedy of Errors" in constant rehearsal for their upcoming performances. All-School retreat, Blizzard of Bucks and the Rotaract Variety Show were other events to look forward to as the winter approached.

The beginning of a new semester brought excitement and determination, hard work and plenty of good memories.

There ought to be some way to categorize these pictures that you already have scrutinized on these pages. The only thing I can come up with is that these are the pictures that to me truly characterize Trevecca, the things that we stand for and the fun that everyone has here.

time for war and eventually a time for peace. With the invasion of Kuwait City and the crisis in the Persian Gulf the impact was felt all over the country and it hit home to life at Trevecca. Chuck Wyant a Trevecca student was sent early in the conflict and the concern for him started a chain of events in appreciate for our service people.

A prayer board was set up outside the administration building to remind students of those closely related to those at Trevecca so that they would remain a prayer priority.

Ribbons were put up all over campus during Homecoming Weekend to remind students of the Trevecca connection to the Persian Gulf. The spirit of patriotism filled the United States and flags and yellow ribbons hung on mailboxes, in the airports and on campus. (Copy and design by Laura Jenkins)

"All the world's a stage . . .

" The drama department presented "The Comedy of Errors" fall semester and the Gilbert and Sullivan musical, "The Pirates of Penzance" in the spring. Both productions were of high quality and emphasized the dedication and hard work of director Jeff Frame, the whole cast and crew. The drama department is off to a running start after a previous year of no dramatic productions. Attendance for each presentation was better than anticipated and the standing ovations for the shows were well deserved.

faces come and go, we make them every day. Whether it is because of the food we eat, the mood we're in, the grade we get, or even the position or situation we happen to be in expressions tell it all. Faces let people know when we're happy or sad, or frustrated, or just in a goofy mood. Captured on these two pages are some funny faces with some clear tell-tale messages. Valentine's Day ... a day for couples. When February 14th rolls around so do couples who are anxious to celebrate their happiness. This year's celebration included a dinner and a pageant sponsored by the sophomore class. Participants included Kim Current and Todd Keller, Lorri Forman and Scott Tate, Dawn Harden and Chad Lauderdale, Cheryl Hopper and Jeff Griffin, Susan Hyde and Chris Adams, Dawn Knowling and Steve Adams, Jeannie Walker and Steve Holt.

Spirit The Heart Of TNC

At games as well as pep rallies students faithfully attended and showed their school spirit. Everyone quickly caught on to simple cheers and rose to their feet to scream at the top of their lungs. After each game the tradition of singing the Alma Mater carried on. True People, true teams, true spirit. (Photos by Carl Eby)

Daryle Wright and Jeff McVay express their enthusiastic spirits at a basketball game by painting their faces and publicly displaying who they're rooting for.

Spirit . . .

it's that funny feeling that you can't hold in any longer, it's the roar of yelling students at every slam dunk, it's the energy that shows how proud you are of your school.

This year students have much to anticipate, with so much talent there was a lot to cheer about.

Fans gathered at all kinds of events and in all kinds of weather. Students showed the teams in many ways how proud they were whether it was in painting their faces, screaming or just being there. (Copy and design by Melanie Huggins)

Donna Shepherd, Scott Fraley and others support their school and its athletic teams by attending intramural flag football games. These events are exciting and are a good way to socialize, meet new people and to make memories. (Photo by Laura Jenkins)

Life consists of more than fun and games here. Consider a three hour lab, perhaps a ten page typed research paper, or another essay test that takes four hours and 22 sheets of unlined paper. It is now that the discipline and the pursuit of academic excellence become reality. Here they are encouraged to think and to analyze, not to just accept what they are taught. Learning becomes a process and not a ritual. The talent is easy to see when you Consider the Source.

Twelve Years Of Dedication

In appreciation for twelve years of dedication, support, countless hours of time and an undying love for Trevecca, the 1991 Darda is dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. Homer J. Adams.

Dr. Adams came to Trevecca nearly fifty years ago and earned his A.B. degree in 1947. He earned his doctorate in 1953 from Peabody and became the first Trevecca graduate to earn a doctorate.

Dr. Adams brought a new philosophy to the Trevecca campus and began to get the school into a healthy financial status, he solved accreditation problems and increased the community's knowledge of the life that exists here on the hill.

n this blur of faces, it is easy to overlook individuality. By observation, it becomes easy to see that each is truly unique and original. Each individual contributes his own part to the overall climate of the community. Each is an important link to the atmosphere and to the outside world. Many perspectives are represented and offer variety to the everyday life. In all the many differences there is similarity, it's easy to see when you Consider the Source.

ride that's evident in the way they walk, talk, and play. It is this dedication that makes a noticeable distinction. A spirit of enthusiasm soars as fall semester opens with volleyball. Homecoming brings the crowd to its feet cheering for the guys in the shimmering purple. Spring fever reaches an unbelievable high with warm weather and baseball. In athletics, there is a difference and the opponent should Consider the Source.

SWEET! Junior, David Suddeth who broke 2000 points this season, thrills the crowd again with a beautiful lay-up.

Touch

/ˈtəʃ/ verb 1: to be or cause to be in contact. 2: to strike or push lightly especially with the hand or foot.

Action

This year's flag football brought about 60 men and six different teams. The teams this year were: Rotaract I, Gene McCreeless, captain; Rotaract II, Ted Geasley, captain; Underachievers, Rodney Baynes, captain; Legion of Doom, Chris Cook, captain; Local Motion, Benny Silva, captain and Wool Jockeys, Joey Mimbs, captain. The Wool jockeys took home the T-shirts with the perfect 5-0 record.

This year's football differed from games of the past because of the rule eliminating physical contact. Coach Alan Smith, TIA sponsor, liked the new rule because "we had no injuries this year, while last year we had a broken jaw from blocking."

Senior Ted Geasley, TIA President and football participant too, admitted that the rule was somewhat hard to handle at first. "We were kind of worried about it and wanted to hit, but after we realized it was still a lot of fun, it worked out. We had no major injuries, so that was a big relief." TIA

TIA gave students the opportunity to participate in athletic events without the pressure of intercollegiate activities. Fun and relaxation were two of the main emphasis of this year's activities. Events were centered around the interest of the students and the concerns of the ladies were accommodated as well. The girls this year were given the opportunity to play powderpuff football and there was also some attempt made to form a softball team. The problem seems to be getting enough girls to come out on a consistent basis.

The focus on the events is to encourage participation from all students, to provide recreation, fun and a relaxed atmosphere to meet and compete with other students.

TIA events included 5 on 5 and 3 on 3 basketball tournament, co-ed volleyball tournament, flag football, ladies football, softball tournaments and the traditional winter long intramural basketball.

Fun and competition go hand in hand during all events. The ladies got involved this year and play a day of football. The winning team was lead by Kim Vaught. (Photos by Kevin Bishop)

Tough

/t'taf/ adj. 1: capable of enduring strain or hardship. 2: strong or firm in texture but flexible and not brittle.

"Sideout Trojans. C'mon ladies!" This cheer echoed in the Trojan fieldhouse throughout volleyball season.

The team had a lot of obstacles facing them, even from the beginning of the season. "It was tough because we had injuries at the beginning and three girls who didn't return," coach Kimilyn Sparks said. Because of a pre-season injury to junior Ana DelRio and an injury to sophomore Kim Tinker, the team had only two returning starters. Freshmen Kelly Oberndorfer and Shonnie Rhodes were able to step in and "really come through," Sparks said.

Despite their 13-27 record overall, the team had several major accomplishments. "We made the district tournament, which was one of our goals," said senior Sandy Donnelly.

In addition to several individual awards the team also gained experience and knowledge from their season. Lorri Forman said, "We grew up a lot this year and we learned responsibility because of the injuries."

Although the team finished third out of four teams in the conference the outlook is promising. "We just have to fill in a few gaps, but I am really confident," said coach Sparks. (copy and design by Lee Howell)

1990-91 Baseball

Overall	8-39
Conference	5-18

With 14 of 17 players underclassmen, this season was the year for the Trevecca baseball team to grow and mature. Finishing the season with an 8-39 overall record and a 5-18 district record, the players were somewhat disappointed with the season. "I was spoiled with our great team last year. This year a lot of people didn't meet their individual goals, and losing day in and day out kind of wears on you," sophomore Brent Falcone said.

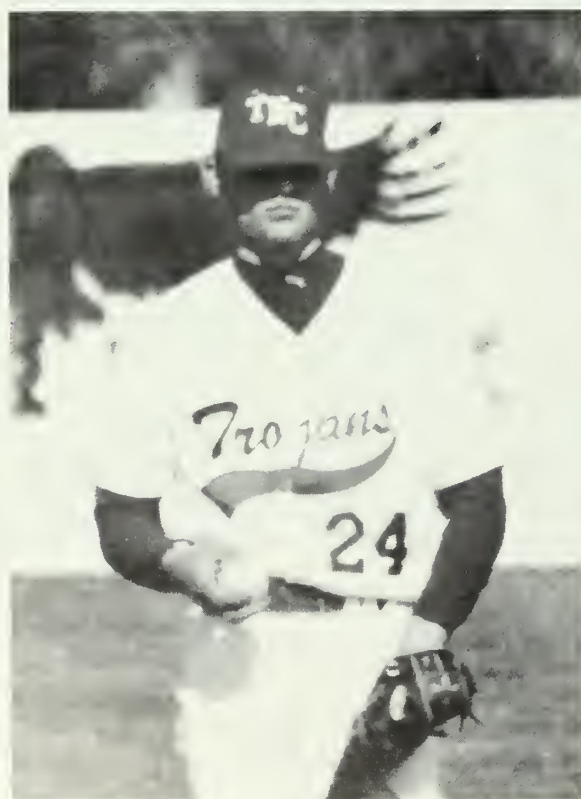

The team has high hopes for next year because the players have gained valuable experience this year. "We learned how to play at the collegiate level we freshmen weren't ready at that level," freshmen first basemen Scott Smith said.

Coach Dave Altopp agreed that they all learned something despite their record. "We discovered what we needed to do to improve the overall program. We learned about our abilities and that it's a tough league. Our players weren't bad — just young. A lot of the players we had this year will be good with experience," Altopp said.

Although Altopp has coached for 21 years, this was his first year as Trevecca's head coach. Because of what to expect regarding recruiting. "He wants to build the program up so that the program will speak for itself. Scott Tate, a junior pitcher, said "We'll definitely be better and more competitive next year." "It will just take time to get the program back on its feet," Altopp said.

The players also think they'll do well next season. "I'm very optimistic about next year because I think it is a chance to redeem ourselves and turn things around. Everyone has something to prove to themselves and to the team. People shouldn't lose faith in us here because the program will be back up at the top again soon," Brent said. kind: first class.

A team that had three wins over top 20 ranked teams. A team that had the 1990-91 Tennessee Collegiate Athletic Conference Player of the Year. No, it's not Belmont or Lipscomb, it's the Trevecca Trojans.

"This year we beat two teams ranked the top 20: we beat Belmont twice and we beat Georgetown. We play in the toughest conference in the country, and there isn't any school in the top 20 we can't play with or beat," Coach Frank Wilson said.

Although they didn't win the district, the Trojans did make it to the second round. According to Wilson, "the goal every year is to win the district and to qualify for nationals, and there is always disappointment if you don't."

In addition to the winning season and the appearance in the play-offs, David Suddeth won several individual honors. He was named 1990-91 TCAC Player of the Year, and District 24 Player of the Year and was nominated for an NAIA All-American. David still has goals for next year, "I'd like to play better and see us improve as a team and go as far as we can."

With the loss of four seniors the Trojans are going to have a challenge. "We've got to have an awfully good recruiting year and then hopefully we'll make the play-offs again," said Wilson. (Copy by Dee Howell and design by Laura Jenkins)

"T-T-T-NC! We've got the soul, we've got the beat! Hey!" Although this cheer was new and different, it was an accurate assessment of the Trojan cheerleaders and their fans.

"I feel like the spirit really grew this year. We had a lot of participation and support from the student body," said Susan Hyde. The cheerleader's hard work contributed to a great deal of the increased school spirit.

"We had a really unified squad this year," said co-captain Ruthie Maynard, "and all became good friends." This year the cheerleaders spent more time together on the side of ball games and practice. "We had a Christmas party and when we went to Memphis we went to the zoo before a game at Christian Brothers," said captain Julie Baggott.

This year the squad consisted of ten girls. Carolyn Smith, cheerleading sponsor for four years was excited about the talent of the girls and would like to see guys get involved in the sport.

"We haven't had guys on the squad since '85. I've got the uniforms, so I hope to see them at tryouts next year!" (Copy by LeAnne Howell and design by Laura Jenkins) accom'plish: carry out, finish, complete, perfect talent.

There were good days and bad days, good games and not so good games. Days that everyone wanted to sleep late and forget that they were a coach or an athlete. Then there were those other days that made all the grueling practices and sprints worthwhile. The day the ladies found out that Trevecca would host the volleyball play-offs, for example, and then the evening the home crowd went crazy when David Suddeth broke 2000 points. What ever the day or however they felt the athletes continued to make their way to the playing field and they continued in their pursuit of excellence.

Diversity

ll of the people that make up life on the hill contribute their own part to life at Trevecca. It is in all of their differences that draw the individuals together in search of similarity. Here they find friendships beyond just acquaintances. Laughter and smiles, things to do on the weekends, spring break trips and club retreats, things that contribute to the memories of college life. All of these things are made possible and can be seen if you Consider the Source.

Unified Not Uniform

Through all of the social and academic events it is more than obvious that there are all kinds of people gathering on this campus. From just observing and listening some of the differences are more subtle than others. In the midst of these differences it is the unity and the feeling of camaraderie that keeps the individuals together. Each has the freedom to be their own person, but at the same time to be a part of a unified assembly.

Diversity Working Together.

It's amazing what happens when I becomes We. A job much too large for my hands can easily be done by our hands. My giggle becomes our roar of laughter and my burden is much lighter on our shoulders. My suggestion becomes our project and my dollar can buy meals for 20. Civinettes is a group of the most diverse I's imaginable, but, by working together to pick-up the work He has left for us to do, our diversity has become the very tightest We. Copy by Amy Keener and design by Laura Jenkins)

"Some people quietly reveal
In the manner of the meek
Others speak the way they feel
To the radical degree
God can use what you give
Within the mystery of His ways
Don't underestimate
One thing (we) know
Everybody's got a seed to sow
Let your heart of hearts
Take you down the road
Everybody's got a seed to sow."

A Year Of Refinement

1990-91 Rotaract Service club characterized their year as a year of refinement. They sponsored such events as the Variety show, remodeling of the Benson dorm prayer chapel and the Rec room, TIA events, world relief and they also assisted in the events surrounding TNT weekend. This year also presented them with the opportunity to revise their constitution. The year was an extremely productive one and over 1500 hours of service were performed by club members. Close Friends And Service

Sigma Society is a Christian women's service club sponsored by Soroptomist International that has been serving the Trevecca campus and community for 11 years.

Through the year Sigma has become a vital part of the TNC community. Sigma sponsors events such as the Dating Game, 50's Party, All-School Christmas Party, and McRun. The proceeds from all of these events go to local charities such as Cornerstone ministries and the Nashville Ronald McDonald House.

Sigma also provides services to the campus such as free baby-sitting for married students and faculty and staff, volunteering at the Trevecca Health Care Center, working at the Crisis Pregnancy Center's "Run for Life," selling Halloween-ograms, adopting Berry Buddies, and working with children at the Martha O'Bryan Center.

For the members, Sigma Society provides close friendships, many outlets for service as well as opportunities and training in leadership. (Copy by Linda Johnson and design by Laura Jenkins)

T together In Service.

Theta Chi service club was formed in the spring of 1986. Within these first five years, the club has formed bonds with many organizations in the community. Such organizations are The Red Cross, the Oasis Center, Cornerstone Ministries, and Prison Reconciliation.

Theta Chi holds three aspects of student growth close to heart. It gives women of TNC the opportunity to do service for the community as well as come together socially and spiritually with other women.

Many exciting things have happened in the club this year. During Fall semester Mrs. Mary Higgs became the new Theta Chi sponsor. Under her guidance the constitution was revised, the club had a successful retreat at Edgar Evins State Park, and accomplished over 300 hours of service.

Exciting things are happening for Theta Chi that exemplify God's work being accomplished. 1990-91 proves to be the best year yet for Theta Chi! (Copy by Suzanne Whitener and design by Laura Jenkins)

Reaching The World With Love.

The Campus Ministries and the Youth in Mission Programs give Trevecca students the opportunity to reach out to the world for Christ.

Campus Ministries gives an opportunity for people with different talents to work together for a common goal. This allows students to minister to children and adults from the inner city, AIDS patients, men and women prisoners and fellow students.

YIM provides an opportunity to travel in the United States and internationally. Students respond to this program early in the school year at a chapel program presented by the Nazarene Church.

Jedonne Swift takes a moment to talk with some girls from her YIM summer.

Mark Batton and his crew serve dinner at the Nashville Mission.

James St. John was this year's Vice-President of Religious life and Sharma Soward was the program's secretary.

Mark and his group make the most of every minute to have fun and to minister to those they serve.

Musical Excellence And Ministry

The Ambassadors male choir has celebrated 11 years of musical excellence and ministry this year. Under the direction of Music Department Chairman, Dr. Fred Mund, the Ambassadors traveled throughout the entire state of Florida and into Georgia for their annual tour during Spring Break '91. God truly blessed these men as they sang to congregations across the region. The spring tour was said to have been a true time of especially anointed revival (Photos submitted by Ambassadors)

M inistry in song.

Concert Choir is a mixed ensemble consisting of people. It is directed by Brian Kilian.

Not only does Concert Choir enjoy doing "fun" music, but they feel that part of their ministry is to sing music with a strong scriptural basis.

The highlight of each year is their spring tour. This year the choir toured in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida. The tour is taken over spring break, by giving up their break members show how important the choir is to them.

W ith A Song And A Smile . . .

New Direction is Trevecca's own dynamic, mixed singing group. Singing this year representing the school is; John Moravec, Bass; James Duvall, baritone and Shane Harden, first tenor. The ladies of the group are; Mitzi Rightmire, second soprano and alto; Kim Medlin, first soprano; Adrienne Sizemore, first soprano and Julie Whitacre, alto.

The group travels throughout the southeastern district representing Trevecca. The amount of time traveling and practicing has enabled them to form strong bonds of friendship and a family type relationship which includes fun, laughter, and some good-natured arguing! (Copy by Wendy Wineland and design by Laura Jenkins)

Enjoying the scenery. The trip through Gatlinburg was beautiful as well as relaxing.

In the right place at the right time. Lead singer for the Trevs, Paul Vann, finds time outside the class and practice for fun.

Load 'em up! The Trevedores all meet and pack the trailer for their long weekend ahead. The groups traveled almost every weekend throughout the semester.

What a sound! The 1990-91 Trevedores entertain the families at the Senior Salute Weekend. (Photo by Steven Spencer)

This year's Trevedores are made up of first tenor, Tim White; Lead Paul Vann; Baritone, Tim Prater; Bass, Art Foster; and on the piano, Bob House.

The quartet had a great time being together and ministering to many people.

Here are some thoughts brought to you by your 1990-91 Trevedores:

Tim Prater's facial expressions when he sings makes him a hit with all the women. Twelve and thirteen year olds just love him.

Tim White has always something good to say no matter what the situation.

Bob House is king Trevedore". He's been here forever. Rumor has it the next new building will be named after him.

Paul Vann is the baby of the group and contrary to their opinion he is always right — one day they will realize that.

(Copy by Paul Vann)

S imply Enjoying The Music

One of the strongest aspects of the Trevecca education is the opportunity for students to become involved in the music program. Students can either devote all of their time and energy to the perfection of their talent or they can participate for the simple reason of enjoying the music.

There are several groups for the students to participate in; Wind Ensemble, Stage Band, Pep Band and the Orchestra. Each offers a variety of music, style, practice time and duration. The musical ensembles are used on campus and in the Nashville area for accompanists and for entertainment. The music these groups provide are beautiful and worthy of more participation.

The Wind Ensemble and the Stage Band are both under the direction of Mr. Stephen Farnsley. (Photo by Michael Johnson)

The Pep Band entertains the crowd and promotes enthusiasm at the home basketball games.

Support

This community on the hill thrived on the support of those around her. Fans at the basketball games, businesses that bought ads and districts that financially and emotionally supported TNC. Without the help of all those around how could a school of this caliber function? It is because of those who are willing to help that we can succeed. So if those around us wonder who we owe our credit to, they ought to Consider the Earthly and Heavenly Sources.

Source

It is hard to pinpoint one aspect of life that is most significant here. It is a combination of things, a conglomeration. Sometimes others don't understand why we choose to live our lives differently or why we stand for the things that we do. They contribute our success to earthly things and to our own personal abilities. If they would look more closely they could see we are products of Our Heavenly Source.

A Note Of Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to thank different individuals who have helped me tremendously and this book would have been impossible without.

To my staff, although we were few in numbers this book is a result of our late nights, long deadlines, and feelings of impossibility. Preston Ramsey, for his willingness to do all it took to get those just right pictures. Gwen Kenes, for her creativity and for all those hurry after lunch meetings. Tracy Isbell, for her diligence at trying to keep my head screwed on straight, her incredible proofreading skills and for doing the impossible task of the index. Michael Johnson and Kelly Jackson for their constant encouragement and all the help I ever could have asked for. Finally a thank you goes to my family for all their help, their many prayers and for believing in me even when I couldn't believe in myself. And to my Heavenly Father who gives me direction and enough grace to make it through every day.

I also want to thank each of you who wrote copy and submitted pictures. This is your annual and I wanted it to reflect you. Thank you.

Laura
